Book Summary

Book Title: Dingoes at Dinnertime
 Author: Mary Faye Osborne

Main Character(s):

What happened at the beginning of the story?
 Jack and Annie from Frog Creek Pennsylvania, got another visitor from the Maggot Librarian, Mervin. They had to get a gift from a Kangaroo, but Annie and the dog Tilly (who was from Australia) went to Australia. They saw licks, kangaroos, and dingoes. They met Burger's and then dingoes were coming towards them!

What happened in the middle of the story?
 They ran as fast as they could. Suddenly the dingoes ran away. I don't know why. There was a wildfire! Everything was burning. Jack and Annie went into a cave. Fortunately, rain was falling. The wildfire vanished like everything didn't happen. The Kangaroos went to sleep and the birds cut up a tree again.

What happened at the end of the story?
 The mother kangaroo gave a box from Mervin. That was it. It was a gift from a kangaroo. Jack and Annie had completed their mission. They went home. They loved home. I like this story because Jack and Annie is a horse and the animals are cute. I recommend this story!

My country, Korea, is one of the most beautiful and unique countries on Earth. Korea is located in Asia. About 50,000,000 people live here. We all speak Korean, and use Hangeul to write our language.

My country is a unique country. If you go to Seoul, Korea's capital, you can see lots of tall skyscrapers. You can also see many people who have a busy day working or studying. But what is unique is that you can see Korea's old palaces just next to the skyscrapers. One of the most famous palaces is Gyeongbokgung. Almost all kings of the Joseon Dynasty lived there, so you can feel how it was during the Joseon Dynasty. You can also borrow Korea's traditional costume and enter the palace. It is unique that you can both see modern buildings and old palaces at the same time. This is only one part of Korea's unique landscapes. I'm very proud of my country. Korea is progressing every day. You may be surprised when visiting Korea.
